How to Make an Online Payment for Dairy Profit Monitor

Dairy Profit Monitor has an annual $350 program fee (effective January 2023) after your initial 3 free months in the program. For security reasons, the system which processes online payment for Dairy Profit Monitor is separate from the Dairy Profit Monitor website itself.

If you're paying online for your first time, you'll need to create another account through our payment system, Cvent, to purchase a membership. Cvent is the platform that we use for meeting and conference registration so you may already have an account.

When your account has expired, you won't be able to access your data until your payment is processed. You can pay online here, click the link from DPM, or clicking the link in the payment reminder email. You will be brought to this screen:

If you haven't paid online before, please use the right side of the screen to sign up for the online payment processing. If you've paid Dairy Profit Monitor online before you should be able to log in on the left side of the screen or retrieve your password.

Please note that our staff manually updates your new expiration date when an online payment gets made and there may be a delay between payment and access if your account has expired. Please renew your membership fee before your expiration date to avoid a lapse in access.

If you would rather pay by check, please make a check payable to Cornell University and mail to: PRO-DAIRY Dairy Profit Monitor, B21 Frank Morrison Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853.
